THE ORGANIC WAY

Soil Inspection:

Soil Analysis: Perform soil analysis to determine soil quality, PH level, organic matter content, and soil nutrient content.

Contamination Testing: Assesses the level of contamination from agricultural chemicals or other toxic substances.

Land Restoration:

Apply Organic Fertilizer: we use organic fertilizers only such as cow manure, organic poultry manure, or rice husk manure, to improve soil quality and provide nutrients.

Use Cover Crops: Plant cover crops such as green beans, barley grass, or dwarf grass to protect and improve the soil.

Crop Management and Biological Organizations:

Crop Rotation: Practice crop rotation to reduce pest buildup and improve soil structure.

Clustering Plants: Clustering plants and cover crops helps create patches of soil rich in organic matter and reduces the risk of disease.

Water Management:

Save Water: Use an effective automatic irrigation system to reduce water usage and avoid unnecessary drainage.

Limit Soil Compaction: Avoid soil compaction to reduce water loss and maintain soil structure.

Biosphere Care:

Protecting the Biosphere: Protecting the biosphere and soil biodiversity to keep land ecosystems functioning well.

Use of Backyard Cows: Use of backward cows to help enhance the soil biosphere and regenerate organic matter.

OUR PRODUCTS

From farm to table, every step of the way is the most important step! Our coffee is made from exclusive single origin coffee beans. They're freshly roasted and perfectly brewed. But that's not all we're obsessed about.

We make sure all our beans pass inspection requirements to earn the designation "Specialty Coffee Beans". Our beans are grown at the right time of year, at the right altitude and in the right soil.

Our farmers are passionate about quality over quantity. Our buyers aren't shopping for the best deal but the right choice. Our roasters are artisans in the perfect roast of heat transfer and chemistry.

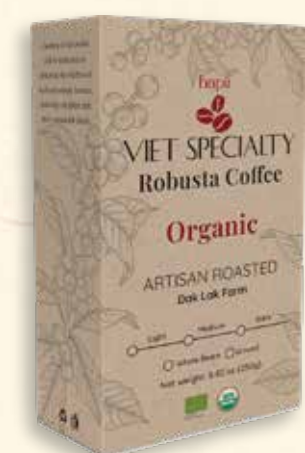

And of course, our customers are the ones all this dedication and obsession has been created for.

PROCESS PRODUCING THE BEST GREEN BEANS

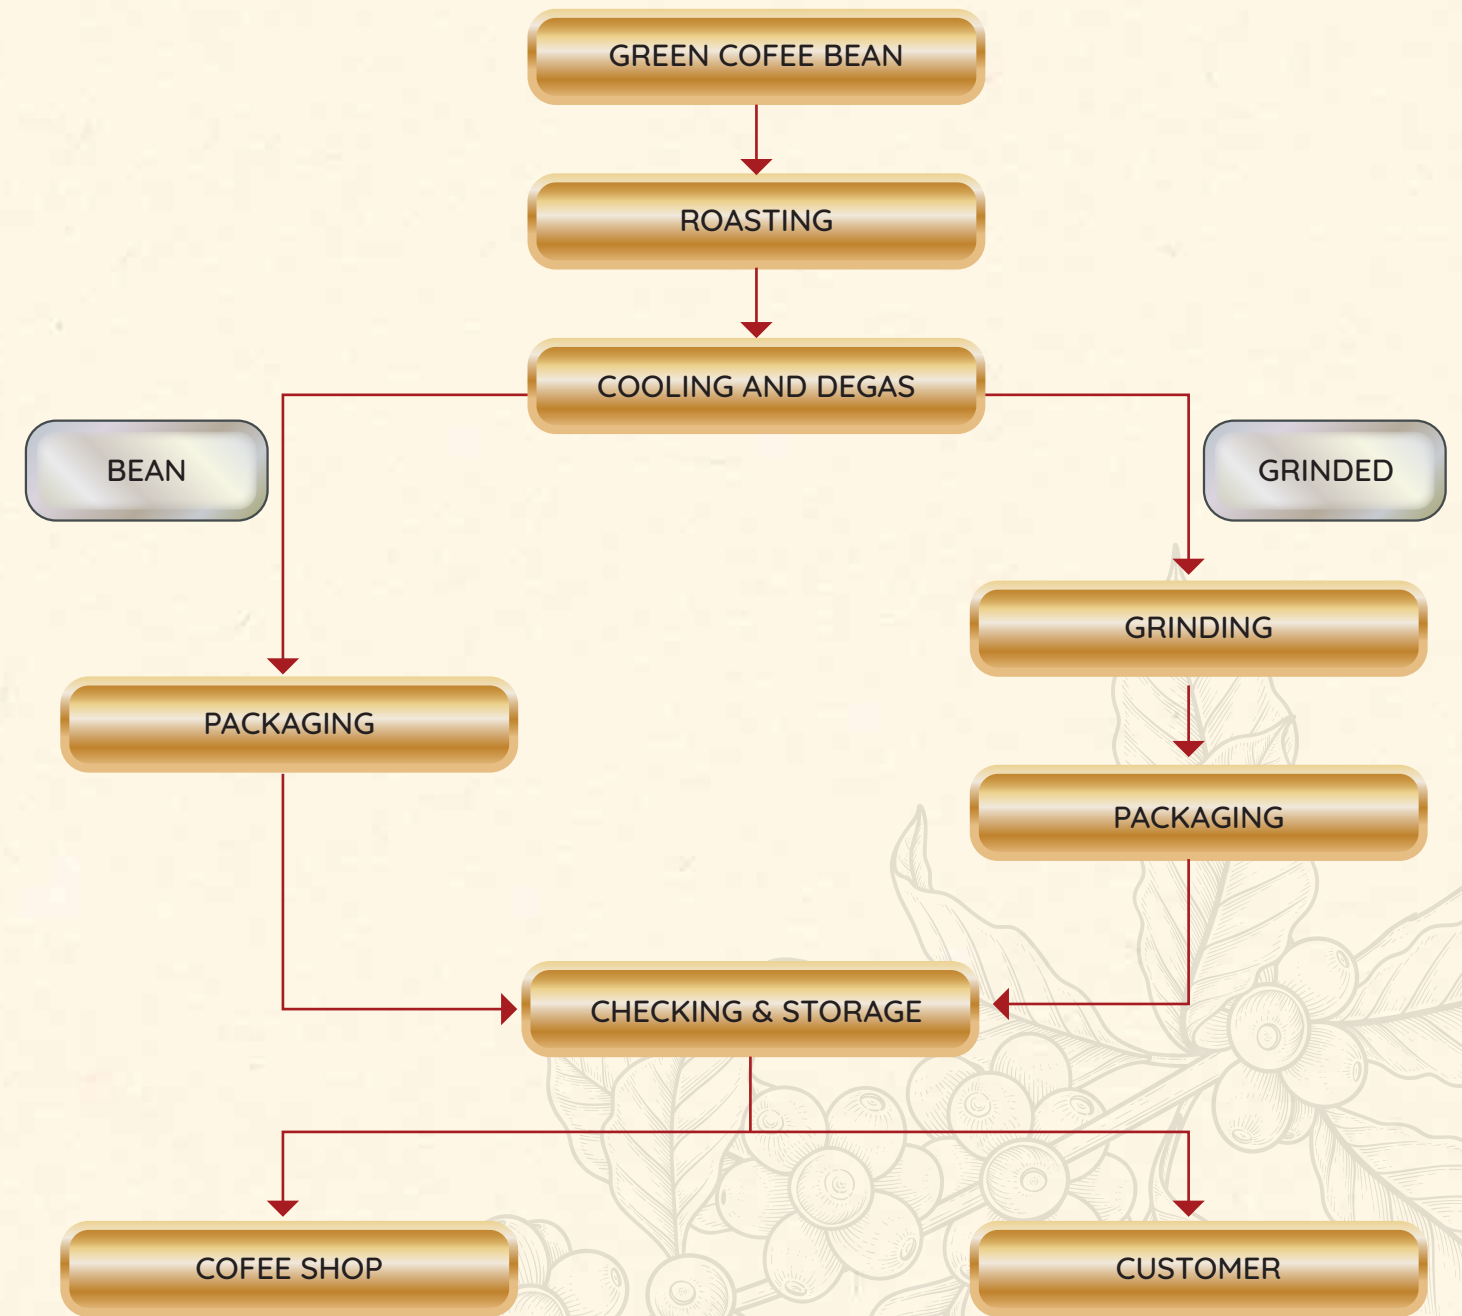

All coffee beans are carefully hand-picked for the utmost in quality and flavor.

Coffee fruit is only picked at 100% ripeness.

The initial pre-wash cleaning process, peeling off the fruit and skin, is followed by a fermentation process of 24-36 hours. A second cleaning is done to remove any remaining mucilage from the bean followed by a sun-drying process for 10-15 days. After drying, the beans are matured in parchment for 3 months. The final stage is the milling of the parchment and silver skin. Only then are the green beans carefully selected from the batch for roasting.
